

Family Protector education benefit

In 2019, members saved R732 000 in study assistance costs through Studymaster.

Education support at no additional cost

Every child deserves the right to a good education as part of their journey to success.

FundsAtWork members with retirement and the lump sum death benefit have the Family Protector education benefit. This benefit is more than just a pay-out towards children's education costs if the member passes away. Many members also need support while they are still alive to help their children complete their schooling. These additional educational support services can help their children improve their grades, and even assist members with the challenges of homeschooling. These services are available for up to two children.

Study assistance

Members get access to Studymaster which provides educational support and assistance to learners from grades 1 to 12.

Children have access to a database of over 67 000 files, textbook summaries, test papers and more.

They can also get assistance with class speeches and school projects through information sourcing and guidance.
