Fund performance

Cumulative returns

Sources: Morningstar, Momentum Global Investment Management Limited, Northern Trust International Fund Administration Services (Guernsey) Limited. Past performance is not indicative of future returns.

The Fund performance is calculated on a total return basis, net of all fees and in US dollar terms. NAV to NAV figures have been used for the performance calculations. The performance is calculated for the Fund. The individual investor performance may differ, as a result of various factors, including the actual investment date. Investment performance calculations are available for verification upon request. Annualised returns are period returns re-scaled to a period of 1 year. This allows investors to compare returns of different assets that they have owned for different lengths of time. Actual annual figures are available to investors upon request.

†Please refer to the fund supplement and scheme particulars for a detailed description of fees and fund facts. ‡Current asset allocation figures reflect the strategy classification of the collective investment schemes (or similar schemes) held by the Fund and do not look through to the underlying holdings of such schemes. *The Total Expense Ratios (TERs) are the percentages of the net asset value of the class of the Financial Product incurred as expenses relating to the administration of the Financial Product. A higher TER does not necessarily imply a poor return, nor does a low TER imply a good return. A current TER may not necessarily be an accurate indication of future TERs. The TER to 30.06.23 is based on data for the period from 30.06.22 to 30.06.23 and the financial year-end TER is based on data for the financial year-end to 30.06.23. Cost ratios are calculated using historical actual and/or estimated data and are provided solely as an indication/guide as to the annual expenses/costs that could be incurred. These ratios do not represent any current/actual charges or fees.

■ Market commentary

Following a bruising three months, equity and bond markets came back with a bang in November, in most cases recovering all the ground lost since July, in an almost unbroken run of gains through the month. The rally in markets was triggered by the Federal Reserve's decision to hold interest rates steady and subsequent comments reflecting a softening of its tightening bias, noting that 'the stance of policy is restrictive – and the full effects of our tightening have yet to be felt'. Fuel was then added to the rally with broadening evidence of a softer labour market and falling inflation, raising hopes for a soft landing in the economy and giving room for earlier rate cuts. A similar pattern played out in Europe and the UK, with economic activity weak but showing signs of stabilising, labour markets softening and inflation falling more sharply than expected.

While November delivered some positive surprises, there is a risk that markets have moved too quickly and are discounting rate cuts prematurely. The sizeable easing in financial conditions in the past month is likely to be of concern to central banks, which remain worried about the stickiness of core inflation and continue to stress the need to keep policy in restrictive territory for some time.

Developed markets, measured by the MSCI World index, returned 9.4% over the month, with the US returning 9.1%. Emerging markets rose 8% in local terms. Bond markets returned 5.1% in November, as measured by the ICE BofA Global Broad Market index, with US Treasuries returning 3.4%.

This calls for some caution in the short term. The prospects for a soft landing have improved, but it is too early to be pricing out recession risk, as markets appear to be doing. However, there is an increasingly slim chance of further rate rises in this cycle, while the possibility of earlier and more aggressive cuts has improved. There remains considerable uncertainty about the way that macro-economic variables will play out, but looking beyond the next few months, we are confident that interest rates will be moving down and economic conditions improving. After adding to duration in our fixed income assets in recent months, we will be looking to extend this further if bond yields back up, and adding to risk assets as opportunities arise.

■ Risk warnings and important notes

Collective investments are generally medium to long-term investments. The value of units may go down as well as up and past performance is not necessarily a guide to the future. Collective investments are traded at ruling prices. Commission and incentives may be paid and, if so, would be included in the overall costs. All performance is calculated on a total return basis, after deduction of all fees and commissions and in US dollar terms. Forward pricing is used.

The Fund invests in other collective investments, which levy their own charges. This could result in a higher fee structure for the Fund.

Fluctuations in the value of the underlying funds, the income from them and changes in interest rates mean that the value of the Fund and any income arising from it may fall, as well as rise, and is not guaranteed.

Deductions of charges and expenses mean that you may not get back the amount you invested.

The fees charged within the Fund and by the managers of the underlying funds are not guaranteed and may change in the future.

Higher risk investments may be subject to sudden and larger falls in value in comparison to other investments. Higher risk investments include, but are not limited to, investments in smaller companies, even in developed markets, investments in emerging markets or single country debt or equity funds and investments in high yield or non-investment grade debt.

Notwithstanding ongoing monitoring of the underlying funds within the Fund, there can be no assurance that the performance of the funds will achieve their stated objectives.

The Fund will contain shares or units in underlying funds that invest internationally. The value of an investor's investment and the income arising from it will therefore be subject to exchange rate fluctuations.

Foreign securities may have additional material risks, depending on the specific risks affecting that country, such as: potential constraints on liquidity and the repatriation of funds; macroeconomic risks; political risks; foreign exchange risks; tax risks; settlement risks; and potential limitations on the availability of market information.

The Fund may contain shares or units in underlying funds that do not permit dealing every day. Investments in such funds will only be realisable on their dealing days. It is not possible to assess the proper market price of these investments other than on the fund's dealing days.

No borrowing will be undertaken by the Fund except for the purpose of meeting short term liquidity requirements. Borrowings will not exceed 10% of the net asset value of the Fund. For such purpose, the securities of the Fund may be pledged. No scrip borrowing will be allowed. The Cell is not permitted to enter into any form of borrowing or loan arrangement with other cells of the Company nor other collective investment schemes of the Manager.

While derivative instruments may be used for hedging purposes, the risk remains that the relevant instrument may not necessarily fully correlate to the investments in the Fund and accordingly not fully reflect changes in the value of the investment, giving rise to potential net losses.

Forward contracts are neither traded on exchanges nor standardised. Principals dealing in these markets are also not required to make markets in the currencies they trade, with the result that these markets may experience periods of illiquidity. Banks and dealers will normally act as principals and usually each transaction is negotiated on an individual basis.

The Manager has the right to close the Fund to new investors, in order to manage it more efficiently, in accordance with its mandate.

Investment in the Fund may not be suitable for all investors. Investors should obtain advice from their financial adviser before proceeding with an investment.

Investors are reminded that any forecasts and/or commentary included in this MDD are not guaranteed to occur, and merely reflect the interpretation of the public information and propriety research available to the Investment Manager at a particular point in time.
